

STATICWORX GROUNDCOM CONDUCTIVE MATTING

Stipple and Diamond Finish

MATting FOR ANTI-STATIC PROTECTION

StaticWorx GroundCom conductive matting offers excellent anti-static protection for personnel, equipment and products. It is engineered for use in environments with exposure to higher electrical charges and rapid rates of decay/dissipation. Matting products also provide additional foot comfort and anti-fatigue properties.

Conductive matting is a necessary element to keeping electronics with sensitive components such as cash registers, computers, and machinery, safe from static damage. The matting prevents static charge from reaching vulnerable internal parts like computer chips, circuits and motherboards.

GroundCom conductive matting is manufactured from a homogeneously compounded mixture of PVC vinyl and conductive raw material. All conductive matting products are fabricated to ANSI/ESD S7.1-2005 standards and tests in the optimal electrical rating range of 10^4 to 10^6 . Matting must be used with grounding clips to ensure proper safety and performance. Comes in stipple and diamond finishes (latter is available with optional yellow safety edge).
